Anatomy of the Sacred James C. Livingston, 2001 Anatomy of the Sacred An Introduction to Religion presents a uniquely comprehensive introduction to the nature and variety of religious belief and practice Organized into three sections Part One explores such questions as What is religion Why study religion And how does one go about the study of religion It includes illustrations of specific methods and disciplines drawn from the work of eminent scholars in the field of religion Part Two examines universal forms of religious experience and expression and includes discussions of the sacred or holy the nature of religious symbolism myth and doctrine religious ritual sacred scripture as well as the social forms and dimensions of religion Part Three consists of a comparative analysis of six fundamental components that make up a religious world view These include deity or ultimate reality cosmogony the nature of the human problem theodicy or the problem of evil ethics or moral action and the ways and goals of salvation or enlightenment Examples are selected from a wide range of primal and archaic religions as well as from the great historical religious traditions of the present An epilogue explores the challenge

Early Christianity and Its Sacred Literature Lee Martin McDonald, Stanley E. Porter, 2000 More than sixty color pictures by noted photographer Richard Cleave enhance the more than fifty black and white images maps and charts BOOK JACKET

Comparative Religion Kedar Nath Tiwari,2014-01-01 It provides a study of the prevailing religions of the world By prevailing it means living and living religions we mean such religions which are still observed and followed by a considerable number of people Such religions include Hinduism Buddhism Jainism Zoroastrianism Judaism Christianity Islam and Sikhism Some may have doubts in accepting Zoroastrianism as a living religion and their doubts may not be taken as totally unfounded For hardly a few people and those also mostly in a corner of India observe this religion at present But still there is justification for taking this religion as living at least on the following two grounds 1 It is still being observed as a religion by some people howsoever small their number may be and 2 As a religion it exhibits certain such important features which are worth considering and which have exerted considerable influence upon some of the great living religions like Judaism Christianity and Islam Towards the end in the Appendix the author has also included for our brief study of some of the ancient Asian religions like Taoism Confucianism etc These religions cannot of course be regarded as living religions but still in our opinion they merit at least some of our attention due to the respect and regard they once commanded and the indelible impression they have left upon the minds of the people of the countries in which they once flourished The subject of Comparative Religion as a scientific study of the various features of the different religions of the world in a comparative perspective is relatively a late development It is hardly for a hundred years or so that the name Comparative Religion has gained currency and studies in this direction have been taken up in right earnest Such a study requires an impartial neutral and tolerant outlook and if at all there is any leaning or sympathy for any religion it must be for religions other than one is own Here the whole question regarding the methodology of a comparative study of religions may come up We may see that at least two things seem necessary though not sufficient for collecting relevant materials which will make our study faithful and authentic 1 A thorough study of the basic text or texts along with the related works belonging to a particular religion and 2 An extensive dialogue with the followers of a particular religion along with a personal survey both intensive and extensive of the various religious practices carried on by them The first one is easy to carry out Perhaps most of the writers on comparative religion adopt this way But adopting the second one in a serious and sincere spirit is not an easy task and therefore very few or hardly any adopt this method for studying religions The aim of a study like this is partly to acquaint readers with the main aspects and features of the living religions of the world and partly to suggest the points of agreement and difference among the different religions

Religion, Reason and Nature in Early Modern Europe R. Crocker,2013-03-14 From a variety of perspectives the essays presented here explore the profound interdependence of natural philosophy and rational religion in the long seventeenth century that begins with the burning of Bruno in 1600 and ends with the Enlightenment in the early Eighteenth century From the writings of Grotius on natural law and natural religion and the speculative libertin novels of Cyrano de Bergerac to the better known works of Descartes Malebranche Cudworth Leibniz Boyle Spinoza Newton and Locke an increasing emphasis was placed on the rational relationship between religious doctrine natural law and a personal divine providence While evidence for this intrinsic relationship was to be located in different places in the ideas already present in the mind in the observations and experiments of the natural philosophers and even in the history present experience and prophesied future of mankind the result enabled and shaped the broader intellectual and scientific discourses of the Enlightenment
