Principle – confidentiality and privacy; the social worker should respect the privacy of clients and hold in confidence all information obtained in the course of professional services.

Consent is a process that includes the systematic disclosure of information to a client over time, along with an opportunity to discuss with the client the forthcoming treatment and service. - 3) clients must consent to specific procedures or actions
- 4) the forms of consent must be valid
- 5) clients must have the right to refuse or withdraw consent
- 6) clients' decisions must be based on adequate information

The three components of informed consent

- 1) knowledge – all information
- 2) voluntariness – consent is meaningful only when it is given freely.
- 3) competency – presupposes that the person who gives consent is competent to do so.
