Unfinished Business: Democracy in Namibia Bryan M. Sims, Monica Koep, 2012 Idasa's Democracy Index initially developed for South Africa is being expanded into Southern Africa in an effort to broaden the capacity of individuals and organisations monitoring and supporting democratic governance efforts in the region This inaugural Democracy Index for Namibia is intended to set a benchmark for democracy to be measured against The tool assesses the country's depth of democracy through five focus areas participation elections accountability political rights and human dignity The research relies on expert analysis to answer a set of questions that interrogate how closely in practice democracy meets the broad ideal of self-representative government More specifically to what extent can citizens control elected officials and government appointees who make decisions about public affairs And how equal are citizens to one another in this accountability process The purpose of the scores is to assist citizens in making their own judgements based on the information made available to stimulate national debate and to provide democracy promoters with a tool for identifying issues and needs that can be addressed by education advocacy training institution building and policy revision

Persistence of Race Nina G. Jablonski, 2020-02-25 This is the third and final group of essays emerging from the discussions of the Effects of Race Project at the Stellenbosch Institute for Advanced Study STIAS that occurred in 2016 and 2017 The authors consider the biological and social understandings of race and how new information from both the biological and social sciences is changing our perspective on the nature of the human condition including the association of biological and social phenomena with race They also look at global events or movements which influence these processes in South Africa and the costs of a racialised world order to humans and humanity Phenomena are examined through the lenses of many disciplines sociology history geography anthropology and writing

Japanese Cinema Goes Global Yoshiharu Tezuka, 2011-11-01 Japan's film industry has gone through dramatic changes in recent decades as international consumer forces and transnational talent have brought unprecedented engagement with global trends With careful research and also unique first person observations drawn from years of working within the international industry of Japanese film the author aims to examine how different generations of Japanese filmmakers engaged and interacted with the structural opportunities and limitations posed by external forces and how their subjectivity has been shaped by their transnational experiences and has changed as a result Having been through the globalization of the last part of the twentieth century are Japanese themselves and overseas consumers of Japanese culture really becoming more cosmopolitan If so what does it mean for Japan s national culture and the traditional sense of national belonging among Japanese people A Capital City at the Margins Michael D. Panté,2019 Protection of Civilians Haidi Willmot,Ralph Mamiya,Scott Sheeran,Marc Weller,2016 The protection of civilians which has been at the forefront of international discourse during recent years is explored through harnessing perspective from international law and international relations Presenting the realities of diplomacy and mandate implementation in academic discourse Non Sequitur Mary Elizabeth Coleridge,1900 The Cognitive Life of Things Lambros Malafouris,Colin Renfrew,2010 Things have a social life They also lead cognitive lives working subtly in our minds But just how is it that human thought has become so deeply involved in and expressed through material things There is today a wide recognition that material culture regulates and shapes the ways in which people perceive think and act But just how does that work This is one of the most challenging research topics for the archaeology and anthropology of human cognition The understanding of the working of past and present material culture its cognitive efficacy is becoming a key issue in the cognitive and social sciences more widely This volume with innovative case studies ranging from prehistory to the present seeks to establish a cross disciplinary framework and to set out future directions for research Its aim is to redress the balance of the cognitive equation by at last bringing materiality firmly into the cognitive fold But how can we integrate artefacts material culture into existing theories of human cognition How do we understand the significant role of the human use of the things we have ourselves created in the development of human intelligence The distinguished contributors here argue that the boundaries of the mind must now be understood as extending beyond the individual and to include the world of the artefact if we are fully to grasp how interactions among people things space and time have come over thousands of years to shape the transformations in human cognition that have made us what we are Publisher s description Tents As Portable Shelters: A Contemporary Study In Rajasthan DR. ANUPAM JAIN,DR. DIVYA HIRAN,DR. HEMANT KOTHARI,2019-06-11 Draft Energy Bill Great Britain: Department of Energy and Climate Change,2012-05-22 The Government is committed to moving to a secure safe affordable and low carbon energy system This will mean achieving its climate change and renewables targets including a 34 per cent reduction in CO2 emissions by 2020 relative to 1990 at least an 80 per cent reduction by 2050 and by 2020 ensuring that 15 per cent of energy comes from renewable sources This transition will require major investment in modern technologies to renovate buildings to provide for the electrification of much of our heating industry and transport and to move to cleaner power generation It will also require major changes in the way energy is used by individuals industry and the public sector At the core of the Bill is the need to ensure that as older power plants are taken offline and electricity demand continues to increase the UK remains able to generate enough energy to meet its needs The Energy Bill will implement the electricity market reforms set out in the white paper Planning our electric future Cm 8099 ISBN 9780101809924 clarify the
