Mourning Lincoln Martha Hodes, 2015-02-24. A historian examines how everyday people reacted to the president's assassination in this highly original, lucidly written book. James M. McPherson, author of Battle Cry of Freedom, writes that the news of Abraham Lincoln's assassination on April 15, 1865, just days after Confederate surrender, astounded a war-weary nation. Massive crowds turned out for services and ceremonies. Countless expressions of grief and dismay were printed in newspapers and preached in sermons. Public responses to the assassination have been well chronicled, but this book is the first to delve into the personal and intimate responses of everyday people: northerners and southerners, soldiers and civilians, black people and white men and women, rich and poor. Exploring diaries, letters, and other personal writings penned during the spring and summer of 1865, historian Martha Hodes captures the full range of reactions to the president's death, far more diverse than public expressions would suggest. She tells a story of shock, glee, sorrow, anger, blame, and fear. "Tis the saddest day in our history," wrote a mournful man. "It was an electric shock to my soul," wrote a woman who had escaped from slavery. "Glorious News," a Lincoln enemy exulted, while for the black soldiers of the Fifty Fourth Massachusetts, it was all too overwhelming, too lamentable, too distressing to absorb. Longlisted for the National Book Award, Mourning Lincoln brings to life a key moment of national uncertainty and confusion when competing visions of America's future proved irreconcilable and hopes for racial justice in the aftermath of the Civil War slipped from the nation's grasp. Hodes masterfully explores the tragedy of Lincoln's assassination in human terms, terms that continue to stagger and rivet us today.

Fairies Afield Mrs. Molesworth, 2024-02. Fairies Afield is a children's fantasy story written by Mary Louisa Molesworth, a well-known English children's author in the late nineteenth and early twentieth century. The book, published in 1902, is part of Molesworth's wide body of work, which includes a number of novels and stories for children. The story follows two siblings, Tottie and Tittie, as they go on a fantastic journey into the world of fairies. The children discover a secret road in the woods that leads them to the world of the fairies, where they meet a variety of wonderful creatures and participate in quirky and enchanting adventures. The kids become friends with fairies, elves, and other mystical creatures as they explore this magical realm. Like children's books from the Victorian and Edwardian eras, the story is full with endearing moments and soft moral messages. The narratives of Molesworth highlight kindness, amazement, and inventiveness. Fairies Afield perfectly encapsulates the essence of beloved children's books with its themes of friendship, magic, and youthful innocence. For those who appreciate classic stories of magic and adventure, the novel is still enjoyable.

Violence and Mental Health Jutta Lindert, Itzhak Levav, 2015-02-25
Violence is one of the most important challenges not only for public health systems but also for public mental health. Violence can have immediate as well as long-term and even transgenerational effects on the mental health of its victims. This book provides a comprehensive and wide-ranging assessment of the mental health legacy left by violence. It addresses the issues as they affect states, communities, and families in other words at macro, meso, and microlevels, beginning by describing the impact of violence on neurobiology and mental health as well as the spectrum of syndromes and disorders associated with different forms of violence. The work moves on to tackle violence at the international and intranational level before zeroing in on the nature of violence in communities such as villages or city districts. It also examines the results of violence in the family. Each type of violence has distinct effects on mental health, and in each chapter, specific groups are explored in depth to demonstrate the heterogeneity of violence as well as the diversity of its outcomes in the realm of public mental health. Finally, the book addresses the notion of undoing violence by detailing case studies of effective interventions and prevention occurring in countries, communities, and families. These cases give us pause to reflect on the nature of resilience and dignity in the context of violence and mental health. All the chapters have been written by leading authors in the field and provide a state-of-the-art perspective. The authors, from different fields of expertise, facilitate interdisciplinary and international insights into the impact of violence on mental health.

Twist of Time Karen Michelle Nutt, Erin E. M. Hatton, Jean Adams, 2014-08-18
Time, the fourth dimension and a measure in which events can be ordered from the past through the present into the future. But what happens when two of those dimensions collide? Six stories of love, past and present, from the breathtaking fjords and conquering Vikings of Norway to the lush green isles of Ireland and its ever-battling lairds, from the white sand dunes and sculptures of Egypt and the vanquishing Rome to a simpler life in the early USA including the iconic Route 66. Participating authors: Cheryl Alldredge, Jean Adams, Erin E. M. Hatton, Cheryl Norman, Susan R. Sweet, and Karen Michelle Nutt.

The Problem with Survey Research George Beam, 2012-08-14
The Problem with Survey Research makes a case against survey research as a primary source of reliable information. George Beam argues that all survey research instruments, all types of asking, including polls, face-to-face interviews, and focus groups, produce unreliable and potentially inaccurate results. Because those who rely on survey research only see answers to questions, it is impossible for them or anyone else to evaluate the results. They cannot know if the answers correspond to respondents actual behaviors objective phenomena or to their true beliefs and opinions subjective phenomena Reliable information can only be acquired by observation experimentation multiple sources of data formal model building and testing document analysis and comparison In fifteen chapters divided into six parts Ubiquity of Survey Research The Problem Asking Instruments Asking Settings Askers and Proper Methods and Research Designs The Problem with Survey Research demonstrates how asking instruments settings in which asking and answering take place and survey researchers themselves skew results and thereby make answers unreliable The last two chapters and appendices examine observation other methods of data collection and research designs that may produce accurate or correct information and shows how reliance on survey research can be overcome and must be
