Communities in Action National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Health and Medicine Division, Board on Population Health and Public Health Practice, Committee on Community-Based Solutions to Promote Health Equity in the United States, 2017-04-27 In the United States some populations suffer from far greater disparities in health than others Those disparities are caused not only by fundamental differences in health status across segments of the population but also because of inequities in factors that impact health status so called determinants of health Only part of an individual's health status depends on his or her behavior and choice community wide problems like poverty unemployment poor education inadequate housing poor public transportation interpersonal violence and decaying neighborhoods also contribute to health inequities as well as the historic and ongoing interplay of structures policies and norms that shape lives When these factors are not optimal in a community it does not mean they are intractable such inequities can be mitigated by social policies that can shape health in powerful ways

Communities in Action Pathways to Health Equity seeks to delineate the causes of and the solutions to health inequities in the United States This report focuses on what communities can do to promote health equity what actions are needed by the many and varied stakeholders that are part of communities or support them as well as the root causes and structural barriers that need to be overcome

The Color of Money Mehrsa Baradaran, 2017-09-14 Read this book It explains so much about the moment Beautiful heartbreaking work Ta Nehisi Coates A deep accounting of how America got to a point where a median white family has 13 times more wealth than the median black family The Atlantic Extraordinary Baradaran focuses on a part of the American story that's often ignored the way African Americans were locked out of the financial engines that create wealth in America Ezra Klein When the Emancipation Proclamation was signed in 1863 the black community owned less than 1 percent of the total wealth in America More than 150 years later that number has barely budged The Color of Money seeks to explain the stubborn persistence of this racial wealth gap by focusing on the generators of wealth in the black community black banks With the civil rights movement in full swing President Nixon promoted black capitalism a plan to support black banks and minority owned businesses But the catch 22 of black banking is that the very institutions needed to help communities escape the deep poverty caused by discrimination and segregation inevitably became victims of that same poverty In this timely and eye opening account Baradaran challenges the long standing belief that black communities could ever really hope to accumulate wealth in a segregated economy Black capitalism has not improved the economic lives of black people and Baradaran deftly explains the reasons why Los Angeles Review of Books A must read for anyone interested
