

MLA Handbook for writers of research papers (7th edition)

What is MLA?

MLA is a reference tool used in subject areas for the Humanities. It provides extensive guidelines on how to formulate a topic, format a research paper, cite parenthetical texts and compile a list of works cited in English as well as other foreign languages. Other useful capabilities include documenting online sources, writing a quote from an e-mail received or incorporating abbreviations in your list of references. There is also in-depth discussion on plagiarism.

Parenthetical Citations

In general, MLA requires parenthetical citations, or citations that are put in parentheses, in the text, directly following the material that is quoted, summarized, or paraphrased.

1. Use a parenthetical citation when referencing works of others, following a quotation from a source or paraphrasing a source's ideas.
2. In the author-page method, use author's last name and page number (s). When referencing the same page or a different page by the same author in a paragraph just incorporate the page number.
3. If an author is unknown (for example, with a web source), use an abbreviated version of the work's title in quotes followed by the page number.
4. To cite authors with the same last names, include their full name or initials followed by the page number.
5. Citing authors with three or fewer authors, list the authors' last names with 'and' before the last author cited. When citing more than three authors, cite the first author's last name followed by et al.
6. Upon citing electronic sources, film or Internet sources, reference the source in in-text citations. Sources should be italicized.
7. Cite the name of the entire bible, chapter and verse. E.g. (New Jerusalem Bible, Ezek. 1. 5-10).

New and Revised Guidelines

1. MLA now requires the inclusion of issue and volume numbers of journals in electronic databases.
  - Use of Italics: Italics must be used now for the volume of a publication
