moviegoers and critics generally consider some Hollywood products even some blockbusters to be legitimate works of art. But during the first half century of motion pictures very few Americans would have thought to call an American movie art. Up through the 1950s American movies were regarded as a form of popular even lower class entertainment. By the 1960s and 1970s however viewers were regularly judging Hollywood films by artistic criteria previously applied only to high art forms. In Hollywood Highbrow Shyon Baumann for the first time tells how social and cultural forces radically changed the public's perceptions of American movies just as those forces were radically changing the movies themselves. The development in the United States of an appreciation of film as an art was Baumann shows the product of large changes in Hollywood and American society as a whole. With the postwar rise of television American movie audiences shrank dramatically and Hollywood responded by appealing to richer and more educated viewers. Around the same time European ideas about the director as artist, an easing of censorship and the development of art house cinemas, film festivals and the academic field of film studies encouraged the idea that some American movies and not just European ones deserved to be considered art.

Baudelaire and Freud Leo Bersani, 2021-01-08 This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact. Bishop, 1997 The Town with the Funny Name Max Miller, 1948 A volume of sketches about the author's life around the California coastal town of La Jolla. Unbridled Passion Jeff Papows, 2013-08 Unbridled Passion Show Jumping's Greatest Horses and Riders written by Jeff Papows is a thrilling look at the Olympic sport of show jumping and its superstar horse and rider pairings including McLain Ward and Sapphire Ian Millar and Big Ben Beezie Madden and Authentic and many more. Utilizing his own experience as an amateur show jumper Papows brings together personal interviews with the biggest stars, owners, support staff and caregivers to give readers an inside look at the personalities behind show jumping. With a foreword by Olympic team coach George Morris each chapter features a different internationally celebrated horse and rider and their intimate stories of success, struggle and sacrifice. Utilizing over 60 vibrant color photographs throughout the book Papows brilliantly captures the essence of the finest moments in the sport's recent history. Affective Health and Masculinities in South Africa Hans Reihling, 2020 Affective Health and Masculinities in South Africa explores how different masculinities modulate substance use, interpersonal violence, suicidality and AIDS as well as recovery cross culturally. With a focus on three male protagonists living in very distinct urban areas of Cape Town this comparative ethnography shows that men's struggles to become invulnerable increase vulnerability. Through an analysis of masculinities as social assemblages the study shows how affective health problems are tied to modern individualism rather than African tradition that has become a cliché in Eurocentric gender studies. Affective health is conceptualized as a balancing act between autonomy and connectivity that after colonialism and apartheid has become compromised through the imperative of self reliance This book provides a rare perspective on young men s vulnerability in everyday life that may affect the reader and spark discussion about how masculinities in relationships shape physical and psychological health Moreover it shows how men change in the face of distress in ways that may look different than global health and gender transformative approaches envision Thick descriptions of actual events over the life course make the study accessible to both graduate and undergraduate students in the social sciences Contributing to current debates on mental health and masculinity the volume will be of interest to scholars from a number of disciplines including anthropology gender studies African studies psychology and global health
