Upper and Lower Respiratory System Structures

1. Identify the structures of the upper and lower respiratory systems.

2. Describe the function of the respiratory system in the human body.

The respiratory system is responsible for the exchange of gases between the atmosphere and the body. It takes in oxygen from the air and delivers it to the cells of the body, while removing carbon dioxide, a waste product of cellular metabolism, from the cells and expelling it from the body. This process is essential for the production of energy and the maintenance of life.
