Many people ask me, who am I, I'm a hardworking student who has a goal to accomplish. My goal is to become a doctor, I had this goal since I was a kid, even though I don't remember why I wanted to become one. The reason that I believe I want to become a doctor is to help people, when they are feeling bad and down. I work hard when it comes to reaching my goal so when I get to the end result I can have the best of life.

I have the greatest ability to procrastinate on anything that is giving to me; it's like a second nature to put things off. But when I actually do the work that was giving, it is done right. I am dependable; I was captain of my high school track team and I was a leader in my high school band. It was imperative that I was there to help show them what to do and lead them on to better themselves.

My greatest accomplishment would be that I made honor roll ever since I was in elementary school. I have been hard at work to keep this record going. Even though I made the Principals list only twice throughout those years I worked hard to meet that standard. When high school came around most people said it would be hard to make honor roll but I really noticed no change. It was like middle school with a different setting and more people. So, the question was, who am I? I am a boy with a big dream and a person who has taken big steps to reach it. My experiences have made me who I am today, a hard worker and dependable person, but I also know how to have fun and enjoy the small things. Who am I? I am [name].

Recitatif Toni Morrison, 2022-02-01 A beautiful arresting short story by Toni Morrison the only one she ever wrote about race and the relationships that shape us through life with an introduction by Zadie Smith Twyla and Roberta have known each other since they were eight years old and spent four months together as roommates in the St Bonaventure shelter Inseparable at the time they lose touch as they grow older only to find each other later at a diner then at a grocery store and again at a protest Seemingly at opposite ends of every problem and in disagreement each time they meet the two women still cannot deny the deep bond their shared experience has forged between them Written in 1980 and anthologized in a number of collections this is the first time Recitatif is being published as a stand alone hardcover In the story Twyla's and Roberta's races remain ambiguous We know that one is white and one is black but which is which And who is right about the race of the woman the girls tormented at the orphanage Morrison herself described this story as an experiment in the removal of all racial codes from a narrative about two characters of different races for whom racial identity is crucial Recitatif is a remarkable look into what keeps us together and what keeps us apart and about how perceptions are made tangible by reality
