Kuraj Silvia di Natale, 2011-06-15 Born in the late 1930s on the Central Asian steppe, Naja is the daughter of a clan chieftain of the Tushan nomads, proud descendants of Genghis Khan. When her fiercely independent father, Ulan, hears of Stalin's plan to bring the Tushan under state control and make them settle permanently in collective farms, he pledges to join forces with the invading German army. It is a pledge of honor that will take her father to the hell of Stalingrad and change Naja's life forever by eventually bringing her, at the age of nine, to ruined postwar Cologne. From there, she must learn to adapt to a strange new culture and to the strange family that has taken her in. But as Naja gradually grows more comfortable in this alien world, the memories of her young life on the steppe call out to her. She begins a difficult search for her past and the past of her people with only the word kuraj, Tushan for tumbleweed, as her talisman and guide.

Silvia di Natale was born in Genoa in 1951 and moved to Germany in 1973 where she lives with her husband and son. She teaches and works as an ethnosociologist. Kuraj is her first novel. An extraordinary epic of emigration, capture, ruin, flight, and return, a revelation.

Patients as Policy Actors Beatrix Hoffman, Nancy Tomes, Rachel Grob, Mark Schlesinger, 2011-07-20 Patients as Policy Actors offers groundbreaking accounts of one of the health field's most important developments of the last fifty years: the rise of more consciously patient-centered care and policymaking. The authors in this volume illustrate, from multiple disciplinary perspectives, the unexpected ways that patients can matter as both agents and objects of health care policy, yet nonetheless too often remain silent, silenced, misrepresented, or ignored. The volume concludes with a unique epilogue outlining principles for more effectively integrating patient perspectives into a pluralistic conception of policy making. With the recent enactment of the Patient Protection and

Affordable Care Act patients and consumers roles in American health care require more than ever the careful analysis and attention exemplified by this innovative volume

Global Monitoring Report 2008 World Bank,2008-04-14 Global Monitoring Report 2008 the fifth in an annual series is essential reading for those who wish to follow the global development agenda and debate in 2008 The year marks the midpoint toward the 2015 deadline for achieving the Millennium Development Goals MDGs It is also an important year to work toward a consensus on how the world is going to respond to the challenge of climate change building on the foundation laid at the Bali climate change conference in December 2007 The report spans this agenda It provides a comprehensive assessment of progress toward the MDGs and related policies and actions It addresses the challenge of climate change and environmental sustainability and assesses its implications for development The report's assessment of MDGs at midpoint presents a mixed picture one of both significant progress and formidable challenges The first MDG reducing extreme poverty by half is likely to be met at the global level thanks to a remarkable surge in global economic growth over the past decade But on current trends the human development MDGs are unlikely to be met Prospects are gravest for the goals of reducing child and maternal mortality but shortfalls are also likely in the primary school completion nutrition and sanitation MDGs The potential effects of climate change compound the challenge of achieving the development goals and sustaining progress The report s messages are clear urgent action is needed to help the world get back on track to achieve the MDGs and urgent action is also needed to combat climate change that threatens the well being of all countries but particularly of poor countries and poor people The goals of development and environmental sustainability are closely related and the paths to those goals have important synergies
