It specifically discusses the four main trends that will shape tomorrow's world: Demographics (by 2040, 1.4 billion people will be added, mostly in Africa and South Asia), Economics (increased government debt and concentrated economic power will escalate problems for the poor and middle class), Climate (a hotter world will increase water, food, and health insecurity), and Technology (the emergence of new technologies could both solve and cause problems for human life). Students, policymakers, entrepreneurs, academics, journalists, and anyone eager for a glimpse into the next decades will find this report, with colored graphs, essential reading.

The Many Faces of Corruption J. Edgardo Campos, Sanjay Pradhan, 2007-04-04. Corruption: How can policymakers and practitioners better comprehend the many forms and shapes that this social pandemic takes? From the delivery of essential drugs, the reduction in teacher absenteeism, the containment of illegal logging, the construction of roads, the provision of water and electricity, the international trade in oil and gas, the conduct of public budgeting and procurement, and the management of public revenues, corruption shows its many faces. The Many Faces of Corruption attempts to bring greater clarity to the often murky manifestations of this virulent and debilitating social disease. It explores the use of prototype road maps to identify corruption vulnerabilities, suggests corresponding warning signals, and proposes operationally useful remedial measures in each of several selected sectors and for a selected sample of cross-cutting public sector functions that are particularly prone to corruption and that are critical to sector performance. Numerous technical experts have come together in this effort to develop an operationally useful approach to diagnosing and tackling corruption. The Many Faces of Corruption is an invaluable reference for policymakers, practitioners, and researchers engaged in the business of development.

Includes brief bios of the terrorists along with descriptions of their org strategies and plots; 3. Analysis of the themes in closing arguments of the transcripts in Part 2.
