Pediatric Endocrine Self-Assessment Program (Pediatric ESAP(TM)) is the only comprehensive self-assessment resource in pediatric endocrinology. The 2019-2020 edition is based on the American Board of Pediatrics' examination blueprint. Comprehensive and concise, it includes 100 new clinical case vignettes. An extensive new revision of this important test preparation manual features one diagnostic exam and four full-length model ACTs, all with questions answered and explained. Subject review chapters serve as refresher courses in English, math, reading, and science reasoning. This newly revised and thoroughly updated edition prepares students for the American College Testing Program Assessment, which is the required college entrance exam at many leading schools. In-depth subject reviews cover all test areas: English, Mathematics, Reading, and Science Reasoning. This edition also includes a new, comprehensive guide tailored specifically for students planning to take the optional ACT Writing Test, which is being introduced during the 2004-05 school years. The manual contains an overview of the ACT, a diagnostic test, and three full-length model ACTs with all questions answered and explained. Other features included added practice exercises, study advice, and test-taking strategies for success. The book comes with a CD-ROM, which simulates test-taking conditions, offering computerized versions of the tests with automatic scoring. MKSAP for Students 3 includes over 400 patient-centered self-assessment questions and their answers in print and on CD-ROM. Designed for medical students participating in their clerkship rotation, the questions help define and assess mastery of the core knowledge base requisite to internal medicine education in medical school. The questions reflect the many management dilemmas faced daily by internal medicine physicians and when coupled with the answer critiques, provide a focused, concise review of important content.

Endocrine Self-Assessment Program (ESAP) Reference Edition 2023 provides healthcare professionals with approximately 120 questions and answers in endocrinology, diabetes, and metabolism. CME, MOC, online module not included. Updated annually. The Endocrine Self-Assessment Program (ESAP(TM)) is a self-study curriculum for endocrinologists determined to go beyond certification and provide the best in patient care. ESAP 2018 consists of 120 brand-new, multiple-choice questions in all areas of endocrinology, diabetes, and metabolism. The study is based on data from 50+ North American colleges with data broken out by size and type of college, level of tuition and public/private status. The report covers institutional requirements for departmental assessment plans, policies on both faculty and student assessment, standardized test administration, outreach to students for assessment purposes, graduation requirements, and the institutional politics around assessment issues. The report also gives key benchmarking data on the size and budget of the college assessment office, or other office that performs similar functions. The study helps college administrators to answer questions such as: what are colleges doing in student and faculty assessment? What resources are being spent? What have colleges found to be successful? How have their efforts changed in the past few years and how are they likely to change in the future? What kind of assessment technologies and strategies are they finding useful? How are they reacting to new pressures from the Federal and state governments to demonstrate effectiveness as educators?
