New Media, New Policies Richard Collins,Cristina Murrone,1996-12-09 We are in the middle of a communications revolution expressed in a proliferation of media forms and media technologies Are these changes a threat or a promise Who is to control access to the media old and new What role should competition play in their further development The United Kingdom is something of a global laboratory for the deregulation and liberalization of media and communications This is the first book to look systematically at the implications of the UK s experience and to provide clear guidelines for the future Richard Collins and Cristina Murrioni question orthodox views of both Left and Right concerning media and communication policies Unlike many in the Left they acknowledge the achievements of liberalism and in fact advocate an expansion of competition in some contexts In contrast to the Right they argue that media and communications are too important to society to be left solely to the market not least because markets often fail Regulation is needed for effective competition to ensure affordable access to essential services and to protect citizens and consumers Collins s and Murrioni s study was undertaken at the Institute for Public Policy Research the UK s leading centre left think tank Their findings are essential reading for policy makers students and professionals in the area of modern media and communications

Platform Power and Policy in Transforming Television Markets Tom Evens, Karen Donders, 2018-04-04 This book seeks to investigate platform power in the multi platform era and unravels the evolution of power structures in the TV industry as a result of platformisation Multiple TV platforms and modes of distribution are competing not necessarily in a zero sum game to control the market In the volume the contributors work to extend established platform theory to the TV industry which has become increasingly organised as a platform economy The book helps to understand how platform power arises in the industry how it destabilises international relations and how it is used in the global media value chain Platform Power and Policy in Transforming Television Markets contributes to the growing field of media industry studies and draws on scholarly work in communication political economy and public policy whilst providing a deeper insight into the transformation of the TV industry from an economic political and consumer level Avoiding a merely legal analysis from a technology driven perspective the book provides a critical analysis of the dominant modes of power within the evolving structures of the global TV value chain

Knowledge and Faith in Thomas Aquinas John I. Jenkins, 1997-07-31 This book offers a revisionary account of key epistemological concepts and doctrines of St Thomas Aquinas particularly his concept of scientia science and proposes an interpretation of the purpose and composition of Aquinas's most mature and influential work the Summa theologiae which presents the scientia of sacred doctrine i e Christian theology Contrary to the standard interpretation of it as a work for neophytes in theology Jenkins argues that it is in fact a pedagogical work intended as the culmination of philosophical and theological studies of very gifted students Jenkins considers our knowledge of the principles of a science He argues that rational assent to the principles of sacred doctrine the articles of faith is due to the influence of grace on one s cognitive powers because of which one is able immediately to apprehend these propositions as divinely revealed His study will be of interest to readers in philosophy theology and medieval studies

Home Territories David Morley,2000 Home Territories examines how traditional ideas of home homeland and nation have been destabilised both by new patterns of migration and by new communication technologies which routinely transgress the symbolic boundaries around both the private household and the nation state David Morley analyses the varieties of exile diaspora displacement connectedness mobility experienced by members of social groups and relates the micro structures of the home the family and the domestic realm to contemporary debates about the nation community and cultural identities He explores issues such as the role of gender in the construction of domesticity and the conflation of ideas of maternity and home and engages with recent debates about the territorialisation of culture

Veni, Vidi, Video Frederick Wasser,2009-06-23 A funny thing happened on the way to the movies Instead of heading downtown to a first run movie palace or even to a suburban multiplex with the latest high tech projection capabilities many people s first stop is now the neighborhood video store Indeed video rentals and sales today generate more income than either theatrical releases or television reruns of movies This pathfinding book chronicles the rise of home video as a mass medium and the sweeping changes it has caused throughout the film industry since the mid 1970s Frederick Wasser discusses Hollywood s initial hostility to home video which studio heads feared would lead to piracy and declining revenues and shows how paradoxically video revitalized the film industry with huge infusions of cash that financed blockbuster movies and massive marketing campaigns to promote them He also tracks the fallout from the video revolution in everything from changes in film production values to accommodate the small screen to the rise of media conglomerates and the loss of the diversity once provided by smaller studios and independent distributors
