Economics Today 14th Edition The Econ Forum

The Fourth Industrial Revolution Klaus Schwab, 2017-01-03 World renowned economist Klaus Schwab Founder and Executive Chairman of the World Economic Forum explains that we have an opportunity to shape the fourth industrial revolution which will fundamentally alter how we live and work Schwab argues that this revolution is different in scale scope and complexity from any that have come before Characterized by a range of new technologies that are fusing the physical digital and biological worlds the developments are affecting all disciplines economies industries and governments and even challenging ideas about what it means to be human Artificial intelligence is already all around us from supercomputers drones and virtual assistants to 3D printing DNA sequencing smart thermostats wear able sensors and microchips smaller than a grain of sand But this is just the beginning nanomaterials 200 times stronger than steel and a million times thinner than a strand of hair and the first transplant of a 3D printed liver are already in development Imagine smart factories in which global systems of manufacturing are coordinated virtually or implantable mobile phones made of biosynthetic materials The fourth industrial revolution says Schwab is more significant and its ramifications more profound than in any prior period of human history He outlines the key technologies driving this revolution and discusses the major impacts expected on government business civil society and individuals Schwab also offers bold ideas on how to harness these changes and shape a better future one in which technology empowers people rather than replaces them progress serves society rather than disrupts it and in which innovators respect moral and ethical boundaries rather than cross them We all have the opportunity to contribute to developing new frameworks that advance progress

Fourteen Points for the Twenty-First Century Richard H. Immerman, Jeffrey A. Engel, 2020-06-23 When the United States entered World War I President Woodrow Wilson declared to Congress that the objective was not merely to bring a new balance of power but rather to bring a just and secure peace to the world by the end of the conflict In this famous speech known as The Fourteen Points Wilson offered the world a road map toward a more equitable international system in the midst of unprecedented global conflict including ideas on the interconnectedness of democracy trade and the concept of a forum for peaceably resolving international disputes Even decades after the end of the First World War Wilson's ideas remained important and influenced many of his successors But now in the twenty first century there are forces at work in the world that Wilson could never have imagined and those forces call for a new plan toward peace In Fourteen Points for the Twenty First Century A Renewed Appeal for Cooperative Internationalism Richard H Immerman and Jeffrey A Engel bring together a diverse group of thinkers who take up Wilson's call for a new world order by exploring fourteen new directions for the twenty first century The contributors scholars policymakers entrepreneurs poets doctors and scientists propose solutions to contemporary challenges such as migration global warming health care food security and privacy in the digital age Taken together these points challenge American leaders and policymakers to champion an international effort not to make America great again but to work cooperatively with other nations on the basis of mutual respect

Irish Economic Development Eoin O'Leary, 2015-02-20 This book offers a discerning narrative on the spectacular rise and fall of the so called Celtic Tiger economy It depicts Ireland as a micro state with a unique reliance on foreign assisted businesses driven in part by a favourable taxation regime It shows that rent seeking by trades unions and property developers contributed to the fall since 2002 Although the country's highly centralized government's pre disposition to lobbying has yielded international successes it has also resulted in recurring self inflicted crises since 1970 This volume shows how Ireland's export led growth is associated more with the attraction of foreign assisted businesses than with the development of critical masses of internationally competitive indigenous businesses

Although the success of foreign assisted businesses in the pharmaceutical ICT and finance sectors has been influenced by tax advantages many of these businesses have been involved in highly productive activity in Ireland over a number of decades The problem of rent seeking is shown to have undermined Irish competitiveness in the internationally traded and sheltered sectors The Irish policy mind set is shown to lean towards distribution rather than growth While this has been advantageous for how Ireland Inc interacts with other governments and international businesses it has also resulted in a failure to resist the destructive effects of capture by lobbies In conclusion this book considers future opportunities offered by the EU s smart specialization policy and future threats from increased international tax competition It argues that unless Irish citizens and policymakers change deep seated attitudes and mind sets towards business development the country s performance for the next number of decades will more likely resemble serial under achievement than that of a high performing EU state

Pricing Carbon Emissions Aviel Verbruggen,2021-06-15 Pricing Carbon Emissions provides an economic critique on the utopian idea of a uniform carbon price for addressing rising carbon emissions exposing the flaws in the economic propositions with a key focus on the EU s Emissions Trading System ETS After an Executive Summary of the contents the chapters build up understanding of orthodox economics role in protecting the neoliberal paradigm A salient case the ETS is successful in shielding the Business as Usual activities of the EU s industry however this book argues that the system fails in creating innovation for decarbonizing production technologies A subsequent political economy analysis by the author points to the discursive power of giant fossil fuel and electricity companies keeping up a facade of Cap and Trade utopia and hiding the reality of free permit donations and administrative price control concealing financial bills mostly paid by household electricity customers The twilights between reality and utopia in the EU s ETS are exposed concluding an immediate end of the system is necessary for effective and just climate policy The work argues that the proposition of shifting to a global uniform carbon tax is equally utopian In practice a uniform price applied on heterogeneous cases is not a source of benefits but one of ad hoc adjustments exceptions and exemptions Carbon pricing does not induce innovation however assumed by the economic models used by IPCC for advising global climate policy Thus it is persuasively demonstrated by the author that these schemes are doomed to failure and room and resources need to be created for more effective and just climate politics The book s conclusion is based on economic arguments complementing the critique of political scientists This book is written for a broad audience interested in climate policy eager to understand why decarbonizing progress is slow as it is It marks a significant addition to the literature on climate politics carbon pricing and the political economy of the environment more broadly The Open Access version of this book available at www.taylorfrancis.com has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license Standing up to Climate Change Shahrooz Mohajeri,Lena Horlemann,Ali A. Zayandeh Rud basin in Central Iran is severely affected by water scarcity desertification and land degradation This book describes the effects this has on the environment and society analyzes the degree of vulnerability and suggests possible ways to improve land and water management This book provides comprehensive and interdisciplinary insights into the environmental and social situation in the region as well as possible solutions to deal with the current challenges Written by German and Iranian scientists NGO staff and government officials and bridging the gap between research and practical implementation the book not only enhances our understanding of climate change and desertification but also raises public awareness and promotes knowledge transfer between disciplines

Global Justice, Markets and Domination Fausto Corvino,2020-11-27 This thought provoking book analyses the process of labour commodification through which the individual s ability to earn a basic living becomes dependent on the conditions of the market relationship Building on the premise that the separation of a group of individuals from the means of production is an intrinsic element of capitalism Fausto Corvino theorises that this implies a form of domination in a neo republican sense

Re-invigorating ubuntu through water: A human right to water under the Namibian Constitution Ndjodi Ndeunyema,2021-10-01 This book argues for the existence of a court enforceable human right to water that is implied from the right to life in Article 6 of the Namibian Constitution The book builds this argument by using tools of constitutional interpretation and with the aid of comparative materials. As such the African value of ubuntu is invoked. Ubuntu which is legally developed through its four key principles of community interdependence, dignity and solidarity is anchored in a novel approach to Namibian constitutional interpretation that is conceptualised as re invigorative constitutionalism. The book advances the AQuA adequacy, quality, accessibility, content of water and articulates the correlative duties within the context of the respect, protect, fulfil trilogy which are duties imposed upon the Namibian state as the primary duty bearer for a right to water. These duties include irreducible essential content duties that are argued to be immediate when compared to general obligations. In giving substance to duties that flow from a right to water, international law interpretative resources are also relied upon including General Comment No 15 by the United Nations Committee on Social, Economic and Cultural Rights, the African Commission's Principles and Guidelines on Social and Economic Rights and the World Health Organisation's Drinking Water Quality Guidelines. Moreover, the book addresses various justiciability concerns that may arise, arguing that Namibian courts are institutionally competent and legitimate in enforcing right to water claims through the application of the bounded deliberation model. Additionally, because the Principles of State Policy in Article 95 of the Namibian Constitution are rendered court unenforceable by Article 101, the argument is made that this does not undermine the claim that a right to water anchored in the right to life can be enforced through the courts.

Dr Ndjodi Ndeunyema, Modern Law Review, Early Career Research Fellow, University of Oxford. The Gambia in transition: Towards a new constitutional order Satang Nabaneh, Adem Abebe, Gaye Sowe, 2022-09-01. The ambitious transitional processes include the Truth, Reparations and Reconciliation Commission to create an official record of past abuses and crimes, the Constitutional Review Commission to draft a new Constitution and the permanent National Human Rights Commission to build a human rights culture. The Gambia in transition: Towards a new constitutional order is a diverse collection of timely, rigorous and insightful essays on human rights, constitutional reform, rule of law and democratic governance. It serves as an important reference for academics, policymakers, researchers, civil society organisations, human rights defenders, learners and the public at large.
