

BASIC PRINCIPLES FOR a GOOD NUTRITION

As we know, nutrition is the basis of health in the human being and a good nutrition shall give us all the nutrients our body needs, and good health, in consequence. It is recommended to:

- Have 4 meals a day. Breakfast, the most important ones, Lunch, Dinner and a Light Snack.
- Eat slowly and chew food very well. To facilitate digestion: when we chew well we form a soft paste the body can digest more easily and the body can absorb its nutrients better.
- Do not skip meal schedules. As food gives us the energy needed for our body to work properly, to have good health and to have the strength to properly carry out our activities all along the day.
- Drink a minimum of 2 litres (8 glasses) of water every day. Soft drinks and bottled or Canned juices are high in sugar content; this is why honey-sweetened lemonade, orangeade, etc., or fresh fruit juices are recommended.
- Eat low fat foods. Avoid egg coated, breaded, and Fried food as it absorbs more grease, which may affect cholesterol, blood circulation, the heart, etc.
- Include fruits and vegetables.

Bear in mind that each small effort shall reflect in your weight, you'll feel lighter and you will rest and breathe better. Do this, until your new habits become part of your life. Your body shall thank you.
