The Allegory of the Cave Plato, 2021-01-08 The Allegory of the Cave or Plato's Cave was presented by the Greek philosopher Plato in his work Republic 514a-520a to compare the effect of education and the lack of it on our nature. It is written as a dialogue between Plato's brother Glaucon and his mentor Socrates narrated by the latter. The allegory is presented after the analogy of the sun (508b-509c) and the analogy of the divided line (509d-511e). All three are characterized in relation to dialectic at the end of Books VII and VIII (531d-534e). Plato has Socrates describe a group of people who have lived chained to the wall of a cave all of their lives facing a blank wall. The people watch shadows projected on the wall from objects passing in front of a fire behind them and give names to these shadows. The shadows are the prisoners' reality.

Kubla Khan Samuel Coleridge, 2015-12-15 Though left uncompleted, Kubla Khan is one of the most famous examples of Romantic era poetry. In it, Samuel Coleridge provides a stunning and detailed example of the power of the poet's imagination through his whimsical description of Xanadu, the capital city of Kublai Khan's empire. Samuel Coleridge penned Kubla Khan after waking up from an opium-induced dream in which he experienced and imagined the realities of the great Mongol ruler's capital city. Coleridge began writing what he remembered of his dream immediately upon waking from it and intended to write two to three hundred lines. However, Coleridge was interrupted soon after, and his memory of the dream dimming was ultimately unable to complete the poem. Frontiers and Advances in Positive Learning in the Age of InformaTiOn (PLATO) Olga Zlatkin-Troitschanskaia, 2020-01-02 Research on students' media use outside of education is just slowly taking off. Influences of information and communication technologies (ICT) on human information processing are widely assumed, and particularly effects of dis- and misinformation are a current threat to democracies. Today, higher education competes with a very diverse online media landscape and domain-specific content from sources of varying quality, ranging from high-quality videographed lectures by top-level university lecturers, popular scientific video talks, collaborative wikis, anonymous forum comments, or blog posts to YouTube remixes of discipline factoids and unverified Twitter feeds. Self-organizing learners need more knowledge, skills, and awareness on how to critically evaluate quality and select trustworthy sources, how to process information, and what cognitive, affective, attitudinal, behavioral, and neurological effects it can have on them in the long term. The PLATO program takes on the ambitious goal of uniting strands of research from various disciplines to address these questions through fundamental analyses of human information processing when learning with the Internet This innovative interdisciplinary approach includes elements of ICT innovations and risks learning analytics and large scale computational modelling aimed to provide us with a better understanding of how to effectively and autonomously acquire reliable knowledge in the Information Age how to design ICTs and shape social and human machine interactions for successful learning This volume will be of interest to researchers in the fields of educational sciences educational measurement and applied branches of the involved disciplines including linguistics mathematics media studies sociology of knowledge philosophy of mind business ethics and educational technology thought Jostein Gaarder's Sophie's World has fired the imagination of readers all over the world with more than twenty million copies in print. One day fourteen-year-old Sophie Amundsen comes home from school to find in her mailbox two notes with one question on each: Who are you and Where does the world come from? From that irresistible beginning Sophie becomes obsessed with questions that take her far beyond what she knows of her Norwegian village. Through those letters she enrolls in a kind of correspondence course covering Socrates to Sartre with a mysterious philosopher while receiving letters addressed to another girl: Who is Hilde? And why does her mail keep turning up? To unravel this riddle Sophie must use the philosophy she is learning, but the truth turns out to be far more complicated than she could have imagined. The

Technology and Structural Unemployment, 1986 The Cambridge Companion to Plato Richard Kraut, 1992-10-30 Plato stands as the fount of our philosophical tradition, being the first Western thinker to produce a body of writing that touches upon a wide range of topics still discussed by philosophers today. In a sense, he invented philosophy as a distinct subject, for although many of these topics were discussed by his intellectual predecessors and contemporaries, he was the first to bring them together by giving them a unitary treatment. This volume contains fourteen essays discussing Plato's views about knowledge, reality, mathematics, politics, ethics, love, poetry, and religion. There are also analyses of the intellectual and social background of his thought, the development of his philosophy throughout his career, the range of alternative approaches to his work, and the stylometry of his writing.
