EventDV, 2006 Sound perception and production in a foreign language Nimz, Katharina, 2016-04-13 The present study addresses the question of how German vowels are perceived and produced by Polish learners of German as a Foreign Language It comprises three main experiments a discrimination experiment a production experiment and an identification experiment With the exception of the discrimination task the experiments further investigated the influence of orthographic marking on the perception and production of German vowel length It was assumed that explicit markings such as the Dehnungs h lengthening h could help Polish GFL learners in perceiving and producing German words more correctly The discrimination experiment with manipulated nonce words showed that Polish GFL learners detect pure length differences in German vowels less accurately than German native speakers while this was not the case for pure quality differences The results of the identification experiment contrast with the results of the discrimination task in that Polish GFL learners were better at judging incorrect vowel length than incorrect vowel quality in manipulated real words However orthographic marking did not turn out to be the driving factor and it is suggested that metalinguistic awareness can explain the asymmetry between the two perception experiments The production experiment supported the results of the identification task in that lengthening h did not help Polish learners in producing German vowel length more correctly Yet as far as vowel quality productions are concerned it is argued that orthography does influence L2 sound productions because Polish learners seem to be negatively influenced by their native grapheme to phoneme correspondences It is concluded that it is important to differentiate between the influence of the L1 and L2 orthographic system On the one hand the investigation of the influence of orthographic vowel length markers in German suggests that Polish GFL learners do not make use of length information provided by the L2 orthographic system On the other hand the vowel quality data suggest that the L1 orthographic system plays a crucial role in the acquisition of a foreign language It is therefore proposed that orthography influences the acquisition of foreign sounds but not in the way it was originally assumed Duetting and Turn-Taking Patterns of Singing

Mammals: From Genes to Vocal Plasticity, and Beyond Patrice Adret, Dena Jane Clink, Charles T. Snowdon, Sofya Dolotovskaya, 2023-10-23 Mammalian vocal duets and turn taking exchanges long coordinated acoustic signals exchanged between two individuals are primarily found in family living pair bonded mammals with a socially monogamous lifestyle some rodents some lemurs tarsiers titi monkeys a Mentawai langur gibbons and siamangs Duetting and turn taking patterns combine visual chemical tactile and auditory cues to produce some of the most exuberant displays in the realm of animal communication How and why such phenotypes evolved independently across main lineages are fundamental questions at the core of the nature nurture debate Duetting styles ranging from antiphonal non overlapping to simultaneous overlapping emissions have now been documented in various taxa some of which are quite reminiscent of turn taking rules in human conversation Nonetheless much remains to be learned about this complex motor skill and at all four levels of analysis namely 1 developmental processes 2 causal mechanisms 3 functional properties and 4 evolutionary history Given the strong link between this form of coordinated singing and pair bonding gaining a deeper understanding of this kind of cooperative behavior will likely shed more light on the deep evolutionary roots of human culture language and music Romance Linguistics 2009 Sonia Colina, Antxon Olarrea, Ana Maria Carvalho, 2010-01-01 The thirty ninth annual Linguistic Symposium on Romance Languages LSRL was held for the first time at the University of Arizona 27 29 March 2009 The by now traditional parasession was devoted to Variation and Change in Romance Manual de história oral Alberti, Verena, 2018-05-03 Pesquisadores e estudiosos das diversas áreas das ciências humanas não podem prescindir desta obra de referência abrangendo todas as etapas de preparação e realização e tratamento de entrevistas de história oral O manual fornece orientações preciosas para a implantação de programas de história oral a preparação e realização de entrevistas e o tratamento e difusão do acervo considerando as novas tecnologias de informação disponíveis Bioacoustics, 2005 Electronic Communication Across the Curriculum Donna Reiss, Dickie Selfe, Art Young, 1998 This collection of 24 essays explores what happens when proponents of writing across the curriculum WAC use the latest computer mediated tools and techniques including e mail asynchronous learning networks MOOs and the World Wide Web to expand and enrich their teaching practices especially the teaching of writing Essays and their authors are 1 Using Computers to Expand the Role of Writing Centers Muriel Harris 2 Writing across the Curriculum Encounters Asynchronous Learning Networks Gail E Hawisher and Michael A Pemberton 3 Building a Writing Intensive Multimedia Curriculum Mary E Hocks and Daniele Bascelli 4 Communication across the Curriculum and Institutional Culture Mike Palmquist Kate Kiefer Donald E Zimmerman 5 Creating a Community of Teachers and Tutors Joe Essid and Dona J Hickey 6 From Case to Virtual Case A Journey in Experiential Learning Peter M Saunders 7 Composing Human Computer Interfaces across the Curriculum in Engineering Schools Stuart A Selber and Bill Karis 8 InterQuest Designing a Communication Intensive Web Based Course Scott A Chadwick and Jon Dorbolo 9 Teacher Training A Blueprint for Action Using the World Wide Web Todd Taylor 10 Accommodation and Resistance on the Color Line Black Writers Meet White Artists on the Internet Teresa M Redd 11 International E mail Debate Linda K Shamoon 12 E mail in an Interdisciplinary Context Dennis A Lynch 13 Creativity Collaboration and Computers Margaret Portillo and Gail Summerskill Cummins 14 Collaboratory MOOs Museums and Mentors Margit Misangyi Watts and Michael Bertsch 15 Weaving Guilford's Web Michael B Strickland and Robert M Whitnell 16 Pig Tales Literature inside the Pen of Electronic Writing Katherine M Fischer 17 E Journals Writing to Learn in the Literature Classroom Paula Gillespie 18 E mailing Biology Facing the Biochallenge Deborah M Langsam and Kathleen Blake Yancey 19 Computer Supported Collaboration in an Accounting Class Carol F Venable and Gretchen N Vik 20 Electronic Tools to Redesign a Marketing Course Randall S Hansen 21 Network Discussions for Teaching Western Civilization Maryanne Felter and Daniel F Schultz

Kendrick, Marisa Casillas, 2016-05-09 The core use of language is in face-to-face conversation This is characterized by rapid turn-taking This turn-taking poses a number of central puzzles for the psychology of language Consider, for example, that in large corpora the gap between turns is on the order of 100 to 300 ms, but the latencies involved in language production require minimally between 600 ms for a single word or 1500 ms for a simple sentence This implies that participants in conversation are predicting the ends of the incoming turn and preparing in advance But how is this done? What aspects of this prediction are done when? What happens when the prediction is wrong? What stops participants coming in too early? If the system is running on prediction, why is there consistently a mode of 100 to 300 ms in response time? The timing puzzle raises further puzzles: it seems that comprehension must run parallel with the preparation for production, but it has been presumed that there are strict cognitive limitations on more than one central process running at a time How is this bottleneck overcome? Far from being easy, as some psychologists have suggested, conversation may be one of the most demanding cognitive tasks in our everyday lives Further questions naturally arise: how do children learn to master this demanding task and what is the developmental trajectory in this domain Research shows that aspects of turn taking such as its timing are remarkably stable across languages and cultures but the word order of languages varies enormously How then does prediction of the incoming turn work when the verb often the informational nugget in a clause is at the end Conversely how can production work fast enough in languages that have the verb at the beginning thereby requiring early planning of the whole clause What happens when one changes modality as in sign languages with the loss of channel constraints is turn taking much freer And what about face to face communication amongst hearing individuals do gestures gaze and other body behaviors facilitate turn taking One can also ask the phylogenetic question how did such a system evolve There seem to be parallels analogies in duetting bird species and in a variety of monkey species but there is little evidence of anything like this among the great apes All this constitutes a neglected set of problems at the heart of the psychology of language and of the language sciences This Research Topic contributes to advancing our understanding of these problems by summarizing recent work from psycholinguists developmental psychologists students of dialog and conversation analysis linguists phoneticians and comparative ethologists

The Navajo Sound System J.M. McDonough, 2012-12-06 The Navajo language is spoken by the Navajo people who live in the Navajo Nation located in Arizona and New Mexico in the southwestern United States The Navajo language belongs to the Southern or Apachean branch of the Athabaskan language family Athabaskan languages are closely related by their shared morphological structure these languages have a productive and extensive inflectional morphology The Northern Athabaskan languages are primarily spoken by people indigenous to the sub arctic stretches of North America Related Apachean languages are the Athabaskan languages of the Southwest Chiricahua Jicarilla White Mountain and Mescalero Apache While many other languages like English have benefited from decades of research on their sound and speech systems instrumental analyses of indigenous languages are relatively rare There is a great deal of work to do before a chapter on the acoustics of Navajo comparable to the standard acoustic description of English can be produced The kind of detailed phonetic description required for instance to synthesize natural sounding speech or to provide a background for clinical studies in a language is well beyond the scope of a single study but it is necessary to begin this greater work with a fundamental description of the sounds and supra segmental structure of the language In keeping with this the goal of this project is to provide a baseline description of the phonetic structure of Navajo as it is spoken on the Navajo reservation today to provide a foundation for further work on the language

The Tape-recorded Interview Edward D. Ives, 1995 Since 1980 The Tape Recorded Interview has been an essential resource for folklorists and oral historians indeed for anyone who uses a tape recorder in field research Now Sandy Ives has updated this manual to reflect the current preferences in tape recording technology and equipment When this book was first published the reel to reel recorder was the favored format for fieldwork Because the cassette recorder has almost completely replaced it Ives has revised the first chapter How a Tape Recorder Works accordingly and has included a useful discussion of the differences between analog and digital recording He has also added a brief section on video updated the bibliography and reworked his original comments on tape cataloging and transcription As in the first edition Ives s emphasis is on documenting the lives of common men and women He offers a careful step by step tour through the collection process finding informants making advance preparations conducting the actual interview obtaining a release and then describes the procedures for processing the taped interview and archiving such materials for future use He also gives special treatment to such topics as recording music handling group interviews and using photographs or other visual material during interviews
