Gizmo Warm-up

A chemical reaction causes the chemical compositions of substances to change. Reactants are substances that enter into a reaction. Products are substances produced in the reaction. In this Theory Gizmo, you will experiment with factors that affect the rate at which reactants are transformed into products in a chemical reaction.

You will need blue, green, and orange markers or colored pencils for the first part of this activity.

- Look at the key at the bottom of the SIMULATION pane. In the space below, draw the two reactants and two products of this chemical reaction.

- Click Play (▶) and watch what you see?

Reactant A is a blue and orange molecule. When Reactant A succeeds in breaking, the bonds of reactant A to the orange substance on Reactant B breaks off and bonds with Reactant A forming Product B, leaving the two green substance molecules which are Product A.

Warriors and Citizens Jim Mattis, Kori N. Schake, 2016-08-01 A diverse group of contributors offer different perspectives on whether or not the different experiences of our military and the broader society amounts to a gap and if the American public is losing connection to its military. They analyze extensive polling information to identify those gaps between civilian and military attitudes on issues central to the military profession and the professionalism of our military determine which if any of these gaps are problematic for sustaining the traditionally strong bonds between the American military and its broader public analyze whether any problematic gaps are amenable to remediation by policy means and assess potential solutions. The contributors also explore public disengagement and the effect of high levels of public support for the military combined with very low levels of trust in elected political leaders both recurring themes in their research. And they reflect on whether American society is becoming so divorced from the requirements for success on the battlefield that not only will we fail to comprehend our military but we also will be unwilling to endure a military so constituted to protect us.
